

THE ENGLISH GARDEN

11 of Britain's most extraordinary coastal gardens every garden lover should visit

From the beautifully lush planting of South-Western gardens like Cornwall's Trebah, to the spectacular cliffside views from Overbecks in Salcombe, and the verdant greenery of Lip na Cloiche on the Isle of Mull, the mix of planting that flourishes by the shore is truly spectacular.

Author: Niamh Collins

Published Date: 7 May 2026

The best coastal gardens in the UK

9. Driftwood Garden, East Sussex

A very pretty seaside garden, this award-winning plot has been featured on Gardener's World and George Clarke's Beautiful Builds. Driftwood Garden is a popular garden to visit as part of the NGS in Seaford, East Sussex. It cleverly uses a drought-tolerant planting and coastal textures in marvellously artistic ways. The landscape has been inspired by the Mediterranean and is a masterclass in sustainability, too. If you're searching for inspiration for a contemporary coastal planting scheme, it offers it in abundance.

